EQUIPMENT

RIVER RAPID CLASS RATING SYSTEM

Raft Masters maintains state-of-the-art rafting equipment. We have several raft types to choose from to give you the excitement you're looking for. Rafts may have as few as two guests or as many as ten depending upon conditions.

Paddle Rafts require guest participation and are more strenuous. They are recommended for adventurous people in good physical condition. You will maneuver our state-of-the-art, self-bailing paddle rafts under the direction of your experienced guide.

Oar & Paddle Assist Rafts are designed with your comfort in mind. On an Oar Raft our experienced guide will maneuver your raft while you simply hold on and enjoy the scenic splendor of Colorado. The Paddle Assist Raft gives you the choice of hanging on or paddling. A Paddle Assist Raft is an option for those with less experience who may want to assist in the maneuvering of the raft.

- Easy Class I Water with ripples and small waves and few obstructions that are easily missed.
- Novice Class II Straightforward rapids with wide, clear channels. Some maneuvering required. Rocks and medium waves are easily missed.
- Intermediate Class III Rapids with moderate, irregular waves that are difficult to avoid with tight passages, strong eddies and currents.
- Advanced Class IV Intense, predictable rapids requiring precise boat handling, with some unavoidable waves and tight passages.
- Expert Class V Very long or extreme rapids. Drops may contain large, unavoidable waves and tight chutes with complex routes.

As an outfitter, we get asked a lot of questions like “How deep is the water?”, “How fast is the river?” and so on. These can be answered fairly generically with “it varies” or “it depends”, but here are the answers to some common questions.

Which Trip Should I Choose?

You should choose a trip based on the level of difficulty, the ages of the participants (particularly children), your physical condition, length of trip, and the type of raft (paddle, paddle-assist, or oar) you prefer.

Multi-day trips are ideal for those wishing to get away from it all. These leisurely paced trips camp along the riverbanks in rustic settings where you fall asleep and wake up to the sounds of the river. All meals are provided and prepared by our guides.

We have tents, sleeping bags, and pads available at no charge, or you can bring your own if you prefer.

Is rafting safe?

All participants should be aware that whitewater rafting involves inherent risks that cannot be eliminated. Is it dangerous? As a rule, No, but no reputable outfitter should tell you it is absolutely safe.

When is the best time to go?

There really is no “best time”. We are open from March to October. Water levels fluctuate through the season, with peak water levels usually occurring between late May and early July. The biggest waves and wettest rides correspond with the peak water levels.

Temperatures in May and early June are generally warm, but can be unpredictable. July and August are usually quite warm and dry. Aside from the “high water”, you will encounter mostly fun, moderate-level waters. You can expect low water on very early and late trips. These trips are particularly interesting due to the technical challenge presented more so than the difficulty of the rapids.

July is the busiest month of the season. Weekdays are generally less busy than weekends, but we do not charge an additional fee for weekend trips. SAVE $5 on all AM trips on the Arkansas River.

Is tipping expected?

Tips are accepted and appreciated, but not required. The difference between a good river trip and a great river trip is frequently the guide. If you are inclined to tip, a good reference is how you would tip in a restaurant.

Do you have gift certificates?

Yes, you can purchase gift certificates all year through our office or online.
